CUMMINS DEFEATED

ALDRICH WINS IN FIGHT AGAINST PROPOSED AMENDMENT BY 14 MAJORITY.

BAILEY OPPOSED CUMMINS

Texas Senators and Four Other Democrats Vote With Republicans to Defeat Amendment.

Washington, May 26.—The carefully worked out plan of Senator Aldrich to defeat the Cummins amendment, as told in these dispatches last night, was executed to the last detail today.

Lost by Fourteen Votes.

The Cummins amendment was defeated by a vote of 43 to 29, after which the amendment of Senator Jones of Washington and the amendment of Senator Payner of Kentucky were offered and combined with the consent of Senator Aldrich, and then adopted. The net result of the day was that instead of the Interstate Commission, as intended by the Cummins amendment, being empowered to hold up until it can investigate every rate which is an increase over an existing rate, it would be empowered to hold it up for ten months, within which time it must render an adverse decision or the increased rate becomes effective.

Better Than Insurgents Believe.

It is a much greater victory in the direction of rate regulation than the insurgent Senators have allowed themselves to believe. As further modified by the Paynter amendment, it is a still further improvement over the existing law, inasmuch as it permits the shipper who has a very small claim to collect his claim direct from the railway company on the face of his bill of lading, if the increased rate is declared unjustifiable, instead of sending it to the Interstate commerce Commission. This is expected to result in more people collecting their refunds than under the existing law.

The law, as so far shaped up by the senate under the stress of hard fighting, and by the way of compromise to meet the demands of the insurgents and a majority of the democrats, now provides for rate regulation as follows:

The Time Limit.

A new rate, or an increase of an old rate, can be held up for 120 days by the commission of its own initiative or on complaint of the shipper. If the rate is not found to be unreasonable within that period a new rate will go into effect, but in the matter of an increase over an existing rate the commission may hold the increased rate up for an additional six months. If within that period the increased rate is not declared to be unjust the increase goes into effect.

This does not meet the insurgent demand that no increase be permitted to go into effect without first obtaining the sanction of the commission, but it is a great advance over the existing law. The railroads still hold the advantage of being able to file a new rate at a little less figure as fast as one rate has been declared unjust, while the commission will probably not hold up more rates than it can dispose of in the time at its command, thus letting the bulk of the increased rates take effect automatically at the expiration of 120 days.

In the struggle today twenty-one democratic senators voted on the Cummins amendment. Seventeen of these voted with the progressive republicans for the amendment and four, senators Bailey of Texas, McEnery of Louisiana, Smith of Maryland and Taylor of Tennessee voted with the reactionary republicans against the Cummins amendment. Six democrats who were unpaired failed to vote. These were Senators Bankhead, Daniel, Hughes, Money, Newlands and Percy. Senator Money, leader of the senate democrats, together with Senators Hughes of Colorado and Percy of Mississippi, left the chamber while the clerk was preparing to call the roll and failed to vote. As they were not paired their course was equivalent to giving the Aldrich group that many votes against Cummins. The republicans had but two unpaired members, Senators Penrose and Dillingham, one of whom is ill and the other missed a train.

Taxpayer Not an Eligible Juror.

Oklahoma City, May 27.—Because Oklahoma City was a party defendant in the action, District Judge Roy Hoffman Thursday held that a taxpayer of the city was not competent to serve as a juror in the case of Dora Williams against the Santa Fe railroad company and the city. When the case was first called before district judge Clark some months ago, Judge Clark stated that if such a contention were upheld it would disqualify him to sit as judge, and the case went over. Under the ruling of Judge Hoffman Thursday, about 30 jurors were excused, and a special venire of 15 was ordered for Friday morning.

The plaintiff asks $30,000 damages for injuries she alleges to have sustained by stepping into a hole on East Fourth street on the Santa Fe right of way, in June, 1908.

Miss Alpha Sledge Returns.

Miss Alpha Sledge who has been attending school at Belmont in Nashville came home this morning. She was accompanied by two of her schoolmates, Misses Hazel Benson of Madisonville, Ky., and Miss Della Vogelsang, of Wellston, Ohio. Mrs. Sledge has issued invitations to many friends to a reception Saturday afternoon, and Saturday evening a party will be given Miss Alpha and her guests.

YOUNG MAN'S FIGHT

BE READY TO MEET EVERY EMERGENCY--YOU DON'T KNOW WHEN YOU'LL BE SHOT DOWN.

Rev. Harris' scripture reading from 1st Samuel prepared his hearers to more fully appreciate his sermon, as their memory was quickened by the story of David and how, when he offered to fight the Philistine, assured of victory because he was still trusting in his God who had delivered him from the paw of the lion and the bear, Saul sent him out, and, armed by faith, slew the giant. Brother Harris chose, as a text for his remarks, the question propounded by Saul when David returned, and was brought before the King with the head of the Philistine in his hand, and Saul said to him, "Whose son art thou, young man?"

The sermon was particularly addressed to young men, his subject being, "The Young Man's Fight." He stated that every man's life was a battle, the fight was on continually and it behooves him to be on the alert as he doesn't know what the future has in store for him, and if he should be shot down, he would not want to be shot in the back, but meet defeat like a brave soldier.

Great troubles and disgraces have their origin in apparently small digressions from the truth and the right; for instance, a boy little realizes the first story he tells his mother is the beginning of a great evil which may wreck his life. So, every young man and woman ought to say every day, "God knows alone but what this may be the day of the crisis of my life. As Thou hast prepared this day for me, prepare me for its emergency and help me." You cannot tell what day will be the crisis day with you. It is a wrong idea to get into your mind that people will think less of you because you are religious. No young man should be too cowardly to pray. Let your shield be faith, your sword be strength from the word of God, and your spear be freedom from self, then enter the fight. Carry the secret in your own breast that "I will succeed." The external evils may appall you and you may want to quit, but stand like a man and the victory is yours as certain as God sits upon the throne.

PHONE NO. 6

Do not undertake to make this fight with the world's weapons, if you do you will fail, because an honest man cannot use the world's weapons and if you undertake it, defeat awaits you, for you are as weak as the weakest of your adversaries and more so. The cross of the Son of God must be to you what it was to David if you gain the victory. If you cling to it, you will win every time.

Whose son art thou, young man? Answer without a quiver, without a drop of cowardice in your blood, "I am the son of honor and integrity." He spoke here of the many evils which grew out of the love of money and what it had often cost the merchant, clerk, lawyer and preacher. Said he "Be ye not among the money lovers, I don't mean that you shall not labor, nor use economy, nor save your means, but don't let this love of money, which is the greatest of all evils, fasten its fangs on you that you will be ashamed you are the son of honor and integrity."

When the services were about half concluded the lightning and heavy storm clouds so distracted the attention of a large part of the congregation that Dr. Harris dismissed the audience with a brief benediction.

OUR "ONE IDEA"

If that contingent of prohibitionists
who know not the taste of strong
drink and who insist that the man
who does is not a prohibitionist, but,
even more, a hypocrite if he advocates
prohibition, could possibly grasp beyond the "one idea" and come to
view as their friends those moderate drinkers or those poor unfortun-

ates, even, though, the love for whiskey drive them to excesses, but who

never fail to cast their votes and

direct all their influences in favor

of the strictest prohibition legislation, there would, in the humble estimation of the News, result less

danger of the legalized saloon and

more practical prohibition enforcement.

ARNOLD'S ALLEGED APPEAL

NEWS COMES THAT WOULD BE
LEGISLATOR FROM ALLEN
IS WAGING CAMPAIGN OF
PREJUDICE.

If the report is true that Mr. Jake
Arnold of Allen, candidate for the legislature from Pontotoc county, is
waging a campaign of vituperation
against the city of Ada for the alleged reason that it seeks for its local
democrats the honors of all the officers, it may be reasonably expected
that the residents of the other cities
of the county including his home city
of Allen, will rebuke him at the polls
for such a campaign of prejudice. Any appeal to the prejudices of the people
by any candidate to secure office
is an insult to any citizenship whose
suffrage is sought.

AND STILL SHE GROWS.

A short time ago the News published an account of the largest realty
deal perhaps that was ever transacted in Ada and that was relative
to the Dan Hayes property south of Main street and east of the Katy. Already that tract has been surveyed,
the lots staked off and the streets are being graded. Ere long that will be one of the most picturesque residence
sections in the city. The value it will add to the town in civic beauty alone
cannot be estimated in dollars and
cents; for a thing of beauty is a joy for ever more. It is really hard to tell in which way Ada is expanding
the most as far as building of homes
is concerned. Approach her from the south and you will think, "Surely this
is the best part of town"; then come
in on the North the same thing will
occur to you; likewise on the east
and west. Only one thing you do know to a certainty and that is there
is always something doing in Ada.

WOULD BE TRUE TO CON- STITUENCY.

Hon. John P. Crawford is peculiarly fitted to represent Pontotoc county in a manner that will secure substantial results for Pontotoc county and reflect creditably on the democracy of the state. He is sober,
energetic and has undoubted ability.
On each and every moral issue ever
before the people of this county or
state for settlement, he is known to
have always boldly and loyally supported the moral side.

If he is elected a member of the legislature, it is believed that he
will always be found standing on
the moral side of every question.

Since the Honorable Mr. A. G. W.
Sango, the black and tan son of Africa from Muskogee, dominated and
controlled the republican congressional committee meeting at Tulsa
Monday, both democratic and republican newspapers have taken the matter up and "there's music in the air."
Some democrats profess to be astonished, but can give no valid reason
why they should be in that state of
mind, and the republicans while not
astonished or even surprised, are characterized to know that Sango was so potentially in evidence and to see that the other committeemen fed from his hand.

Taking either horn of the dilemma
the fact remains that Sango is boss
and the lily whites dare not deny it.
If they deny it they will forever alien-
ate their one sure asset upon election
day; if they admit it they drive away
from the party all the respectable
whites. Taking either horn they fall
into the pit.

And now to accentuate and make
the issue more plain and more acute
a lieutenant of Sango's, one Atch
Jones, also a negro and second in command among the Muskogee republicans has announced himself as a republican candidate for the legislature from his county and swears by
the great grey possum that he will
have the nomination or know the reason why. Thus arises another and more acute local condition for our
sister county.

And the Hon. Atch Jones has the success of the Ron. A. G. W. Sango before his eyes to encourage him. He sees that Sango controls the district
republicans and he knows of no valid
reason why he should not control the republicans of Muskogee county.

And neither do we.—Tulsa Democrat.

THIS IS THE STORY OF THE LONGEST LOVE AFFAIR THAT AMERICA HAS EVER KNOWN

Participants—Jas. A. Maxwell
and Mary E. Barron.

Beginning—School house in Genesee Valley, N. Y., when he was 16 and she was 12.

Time—1832.

Married—April 29, 1841, when
he was 25 and she 21.

Children—Five.

Present ages—He is 94 and she
is 90.

Life Occupation—Farming.

By W. G. Shepherd.

Caledonia, N. Y., May 24.—James
and Mary Maxwell have passed the place where their marriage seems
matter-of-fact. Indeed, now that they are in the seventieth year of their
wedded life their love of 70 years
seems to them as wonderful as it did
at first. To us of 1910 it is marvelous.
One woman—one man for 63 years!

They sit together in the parlor,
side by side, and tell about it.
Perhaps the old theory is true,
that a man and his wife grow to
look alike, but it is not the case
with this couple, who have been
wedded more years than any other
couple on record in the United States. Her eyes are bright and blue;
her hair is white. His eyes are dark
and a little heavy, and his hair is still well sprinkled with black. His tricks and facial expression and speech are not hers. She never did try to be like a man. No suffrage business for her. You make her frown
by mentioning it.

He is ninety-four years old; she
is ninety. They were married April 29, 1841.

"You remember when you proposed?" you ask the man. He doesn't seem old; he drives to town, alone,
every day.

"No!" he says mischievously.
"Father!" comes chidingly from her
as she looks at the company with
smile-covered face. "He does remember," she explains. "It was in 1839—one evening at the fence."

King Edward was a baby then.
Theodore Roosevelt had not been born. How many millions have lived
and loved and wedded and borne children and seen them become men and
women and then passed out into
eternity, their life-work done, since
that soft June evening in the Genesee valley? Seventy Junes have followed, and yet you hear these two
tell with their own lips of that star-
blessed evening, and see them sitting
before you, side by side, smiling with happiness because, so long ago, she
said "yes."

"I whispered it," she explains, almost blushing.

What a potent whisper, to cover
70 years.

"I was nineteen when he proposed
to me," she says. "But I loved him
when he thought I was only a little girl. He was four years older than I,
and I thought him very smart."

"Mother!"

"Well, when I was fifteen years
old—we'd known each other ever
since we were born—I knew I loved
him."

That was in 1835.

Halley's comet swung by us in that year. Now it is back again, and she still loves him. There's a wonder of love for you—a love that lasts
through the cycle of a comet!

"Yes," she goes on, "I used to sit
in church and look at the back of James' head more than I did at the front."

Further investigation disclosed that Father Consalazio, whose attentions
to Miss Johann had been made a subject of inquiry by Bishop McPaul,
had accompanied her to Atlantic City

preacher's face. And I used to worry about it, too.

"She needn't have worried," you
hear him say. "I had my eye set on
her when she was only about twelve
years old."

That was back in 1832.

And in these days of one divorce
in 12 marriages, folks say love does
not last.

You ask them whether it does last.
You sort of feel that they have a right to be heard by all the world on
that question.

"It lasts through thick and thin,"
he says.

"Why, then, do we have so many
divorces these days?"

"Because folks don't marry for love," she answers. "I feel sorry for folks who don't marry, though," she
adds presently.

She can't see how a bachelor "can
keep alive and take care of himself
without a woman to pick up after-
him," but Mr. Maxwell thinks they have some use in the world. "Their
duty," he says, "is to stand around
and show other men how lop-sided
a man can be without a woman."

She interrupts the conversation to
give "father" his medicine, explaining that she is worried about his heart.

"I don't want him to go before I
do," she adds. "I wish we could go together. I think if he'd go first my heart would just stop."

But she smiles as she says it. She knows it probably will.

And you can't help praying that it
may all end that way—this love affair of Jas. Maxwell, Scotch farmer
boy, and Mary Elizabeth Barron, his
school mate, which has gone on for
over three quarters of a century.

Or will it end—ever. In heaven
wouldn't they seek and find each other
among all the angels.

What message do you want to send
to all the brides and bridegrooms of June," you ask them.

"Good luck to 'em," says Father.
"Tell the men to pick out girls whose
mothers brought them up right, as
my girl's mother did."

"My girl!"—ninety years old. "My girl's mother"—dust these 70 years!

"Tell them to marry the boy they
love and don't let anything else
count," says Mother.

"And let him be the boss?" you
ask.

"If you love him, you'll be glad
enough of that," she says.

You say goodbye, thinking you'll
never see them again.

But if they come to their seven-
tieth wedding anniversary on April 29, 1911, the chances are that you'll
hear about them—that folks will hear
about them from one end of this country to the other. Their wonderful love story will stand repeating,
year by year.

NUMBER 45

CUMMINS DEFEATED

ALDRICH WINS IN FIGHT AGAINST PROPOSED AMENDMENT BY 14 MAJORITY.

Texas Senators and Four Other Democrats Vote With Republicans to Defeat Amendment.

Washington, May 26.—The carefully worked out plan of Senator Aldrich to defeat the Cummins amendment, as told in these dispatches last night, was executed to the last detail today.

Lost by Fourteen Votes.

The Cummins amendment was defeated by a vote of 43 to 29, after which the amendment of Senator Jones of Washington and the amendment of Senator Payner of Kentucky were offered and combined, with the consent of Senator Aldrich, and then adopted. The net result of the day was that instead of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as intended by the Cummins amendment, being empowered to hold up until it can investigate every rate which is an increase over an existing rate, it would be empowered to hold it up for ten months, within which time it must render an adverse decision or the increased rate becomes effective.

Better Than Insurgents Believe.

It is a much greater victory in the direction of rate regulation than the insurgent Senators have allowed themselves to believe. As further modified by the Paynter amendment, it is a still further improvement over the existing law, inasmuch as it permits the shipper who has a very small claim to collect his claim direct from the railway company on the face of his bill of lading, if the increased rate is declared unjustifiable, instead of sending it to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This is expected to result in more people collecting their refunds than under the existing law.

The law, as so far shaped up by the senate under the stress of hard fighting, and by the way of compromise to meet the demands of the insurgents and a majority of the democrats, now provides for rate regulation as follows:

The Time Limit.

A new rate, or an increase of an old rate, can be held up for 120 days by the commission of its own initiative or on complaint of the shipper. If the rate is not found to be unreasonable within that period a new rate will go into effect, but in the matter of an increase over an existing rate the commission may hold the increased rate up for an additional six months. If within that period the increased rate is not declared to be unjust the increase goes into effect.

This does not meet the insurgent demand that no increase be permitted to go into effect without first obtaining the sanction of the commission, but it is a great advance over the existing law. The railroads still hold the advantage of being able to file a new rate at a little less figure as fast as one rate has been declared unjust, while the commission will probably not hold up more rates than it can dispose of in the time at its command, thus letting the bulk of the increased rates take effect automatically at the expiration of 120 days.

In the struggle today twenty-one democratic senators voted on the Cummins amendment. Seventeen of these voted with the progressive republicans for the amendment and four, senators Bailey of Texas, McEnery of Louisiana, Smith of Maryland and Taylor of Tennessee voted with the reactionary republicans against the Cummins amendment. Six democrats who were unpaired failed to vote. These were Senators Bankhead, Daniel, Hughes, Money, Newlands and Percy. Senator Money, leader of the senate democrats, together with Senators Hughes of Colorado and Percy of Mississippi, left the chamber while the clerk was preparing to call the roll and failed to vote. As they were not paired their course was equivalent to giving the Aldrich group that many votes against Cummins. The republicans had but two unpaired members, Senators Penrose and Dillingham, one of whom is ill and the other missed a train.

Taxpayer Not an Eligible Juror.

Oklahoma City, May 27.—Because Oklahoma City was a party defendant in the action, District Judge Roy Hoffman Thursday held that a taxpayer of the city was not competent to serve as a juror in the case of Dora Williams against the Santa Fe railroad company and the city. When the case was first called before district judge Clark some months ago, Judge Clark stated that if such a contention were upheld it would disqualify him to sit as judge, and the case went over. Under the ruling of Judge Hoffman Thursday, about 30 jurors were excused, and a special venire of 15 was ordered for Friday morning.

The plaintiff asks $30,000 damages for injuries she alleges to have sustained by stepping into a hole on East Fourth street on the Santa Fe right of way, in June, 1908.

Miss Alpha Sledge Returns.

Miss Alpha Sledge who has been attending school at Belmont in Nashville came home this morning. She was accompanied by two of her schoolmates, Misses Hazel Benson of Madisonville, Ky., and Miss Della Vogelsang, of Wellston, Ohio. Mrs. Sledge has issued invitations to many friends to a reception Saturday afternoon, and Saturday evening a party will be given Miss Alpha and her guests.

YOUNG MAN'S FIGHT

BE READY TO MEET EVERY EMERGENCY—YOU DON'T KNOW WHEN YOU'LL BE SHOT DOWN.

Rev. Harris' scripture reading from 1st Samuel prepared his hearers to more fully appreciate his sermon, as their memory was quickened by the story of David and how, when he offered to fight the Philistine, assured of victory because he was still trusting in his God who had delivered him from the paw of the lion and the bear, Saul sent him out, and, armed by faith, slew the giant. Brother Harris chose, as a text for his remarks, the question propounded by Saul when David returned, and was brought before the King with the head of the Philistine in his hand, and Saul said to him, "Whose son art thou, young man?"

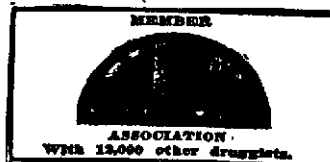

The sermon was particularly addressed to young men, his subject being, "The Young Man's Fight." He stated that every man's life was a battle, the fight was on continually and it behooves him to be on the alert as he doesn't know what the future has in store for him, and if he should be shot down, he would not want to be shot in the back, but meet defeat like a brave soldier.

Great troubles and disgraces have their origin in apparently small digressions from the truth and the right; for instance, a boy little realizes the first story he tells his mother is the beginning of a great evil which may wreck his life. So, every young man and woman ought to say every day, "God knows alone but what this may be the day of the crisis of my life. As Thou hast prepared this day for me, prepare me for its emergency and help me." You cannot tell what day will be the crisis day with you. It is a wrong idea to get into your mind that people will think less of you because you are religious. No young man should be too cowardly to pray. Let your shield be faith, your sword be strength from the word of God, and your spear be freedom from self, then enter the fight. Carry the secret in your own breast, that "I will succeed." The external evils may appall you and you may want to quit, but stand like a man and the victory is yours as certain as God sits upon the throne.

Ramsey Drug Co. PHONE NO. 6

Do not undertake to make this fight with the world's weapons, if you do you will fall, because an honest man cannot use the world's weapons and if you undertake it, defeat awaits you, for you are as weak as the weakest of your adversaries and more so. The cross of the Son of God must be to you what it was to David if you gain the victory. If you cling to it, you will win every time.

Whose son art thou, young man? Answer without a quiver, without a drop of cowardice in your blood, "I am the son of honor and integrity." He spoke here of the many evils which grew out of the love of money and what it had often cost the merchant, clerk, lawyer and preacher. Said he "Be ye not among the money lovers. I don't mean that you shall not labor, nor use economy, nor save your means, but don't let this love of money, which is the greatest of all evils, fasten its fangs on you that you will be ashamed you are the son of honor and integrity."

When the services were about half concluded the lightning and heavy storm clouds so distracted the attention of a large part of the congregation that Dr. Harris dismissed the audience with a brief benediction.

OUR "ONE IDEA"

If that contingent of prohibitionists
who know not the taste of strong
drink and who insist that the man
who does is not a prohibitionist, but
even more, a hypocrite if he advocates
prohibition, could possibly grasp beyond the "one idea" and come to
view as their friends those moderate drinkers or those poor unfortunate, even, though, the love for whiskey drive them to excesses, but who

never fail to cast their votes and
direct all their influences in favor
of the strictest prohibition legislation, there would, in the humble estimation of the News, result less
danger of the legalized saloon and
more practical prohibition enforcement.

ARNOLD'S ALLEGED APPEAL

NEWS COMES THAT WOULD BE
LEGISLATOR FROM ALLEN
IS WAGING CAMPAIGN OF
PREJUDICE.

If the report is true that Mr. Jake
Arnold of Allen, candidate for the legislature from Pontotoc county, is
waging a campaign of vituperation
against the city of Ada for the alleged
reason that it seeks for its local
democrats the honors of all the officers, it may be reasonably expected
that the residents of the other cities
of the county including his home city
of Allen, will rebuke him at the polls
for such a campaign of prejudice. Any appeal to the prejudices of the people by any candidate to secure office
is an insult to any citizenship whose
suffrage is sought.

AND STILL SHE GROWS.

A short time ago the News published an account of the largest realty
deal perhaps that was ever trans-
acted in Ada and that was relative
to the Dan Hayes property south of
Main street and east of the Katy. Already that tract has been surveyed,
the lots staked off and the streets are
being graded. Ere long that will be one of the most picturesque residence
sections in the city. The value it will
add to the town in civic beauty alone
cannot be estimated in dollars and
cents; for a thing of beauty is a
joy for ever more. It is really hard
to tell in which way Ada is expanding
the most as far as building of homes
is concerned. Approach her from the south and you will think, "Surely this
is the best part of town"; then come
in on the North the same thing will
occur to you; likewise on the east
and west. Only one thing you do
know to a certainty and that is there
is always something doing in Ada.

WOULD BE TRUE TO CON- STITUENCY.

Hon. John P. Crawford is peculiarly fitted to represent Pontotoc county in a manner that will secure substantial results for Pontotoc county and reflect creditably on the democracy of the state. He is sober,
energetic and has undoubted ability.
On each and every moral issue ever
before the people of this county or
state for settlement, he is known to
have always boldly and loyally supported the moral side.
If he is elected a member of the
legislature, it is believed that he
will always be found standing on
the moral side of every question.

Since the Honorable Mr. A. G. W.
Sango, the black and tan son of Africa from Muskogee, dominated and
controlled the republican congress-
sional committee meeting at Tulsa
Monday, both democratic and republi-
can newspapers have taken the matter up and "there's music in the air."
Some democrats profess to be astonished, but can give no valid reason
why they should be. In that state, of mind, and the republicans while not
astonished or even surprised, are chagrined to know that Sango was so potentially in evidence and to see that
the other committeemen fed from his
hand.

Taking either horn of the dilemma
the fact remains that Sango is boss
and the lily whites dare not deny it.
If they deny it they will forever alien-
ate their one sure asset upon election
day; if they admit it they drive away
from the party all the respectable
whites. Taking either horn they fall
into the pit.

And now to accentuate and make
the issue more plain and more acute
a lieutenant of Sango's, one Atch
Jones, also a negro and second in
command among the Muskogee republicans has announced himself as a
republican candidate for the legislature from his county and swears by
the great grey possum that he will
have the nomination or know the
reason why. Thus arises another and
more acute local condition for our
sister county.

And the Hon. Atch Jones has the success of the Hon. A. G. W. Sango
before his eyes to encourage him. He
sees that Sango controls the district
republicans and he knows of no valid
reason why he should not control the
republicans of Muskogee county.

And neither do we.—Tulsa Democrat.

MRS. R. O. HARRIS CALLED TO STRATFORD

Mrs. F. O. Harris was called to Stratford yesterday to the bedside of a sick sister. This morning she writ-ed Mr. Harris to send a physician to Stratford at once as her sister was worse.

THIS IS THE STORY OF THE LONGEST LOVE AFFAIR THAT AMERICA HAS EVER KNOWN

Participants—Jas. A. Maxwell
and Mary E. Barron.
Beginning—School house in Genesee Valley, N. Y., when he
was 18 and she was 12.
Time—1832.
Married—April 29, 1841, when
he was 25 and she 21.
Children—Five.
Present ages—He is 94 and she
is 90.
Life Occupation—Farming.

By W. G. Shepherd.

Caledonia, N. Y., May 24.—James
and Mary Maxwell have passed the
place where their marriage seems
matter-of-fact. Indeed, now that they are in the seventieth year of their
wedded life their love of 70 years
seems to them as wonderful as it did
at first. To us of 1910 it is marvelous.

One woman—one man for 60 years!

They sit together in the parlor,
side by side, and tell about it.

Perhaps the old theory is true,
that a man and his wife grow to
look alike, but it is not the case
with this couple, who have been
wedded more years than any other
couple on record in the United State. Her eyes are bright and blue;
her hair is white. His eyes are dark
and a little heavy, and his hair is still well sprinkled with black. His tricks and facial expression and
speech are not hers. She never did try to be like a man. No suffrage bug-iness for her. You make her frown
by mentioning it.

He is ninety-four years old; she
is ninety. They were married April 29, 1841.

"You remember when you proposed?" you ask the man. He doesn't seem old; he drives to town, alone,
every day.

"No!" he says mischievously.
"Father!" comes childingly from her
as she looks at the company with
smile-covered face. "He does remember," she explains. "It was in 1839—one evening at the fence."

King Edward was a baby then.
Theodore Roosevelt had not been
born. How many millions have lived
and loved and wedded and borne children, and seen them become men and
women and then passed out into
eternity, their life-work done, since
that soft June evening in the Gene-
see valley? Seventy Junes have followed, and yet you hear these two
tell with their own lips of that star-
blessed evening, and see them sitting
before you, side by side, smiling with
happiness because, so long ago, she
said "yes."

"I whispered it," she explains, almost blushing.

"What a potent whisper, to cover
70 years."

"I was nineteen when he proposed
to me," she says. "But I loved him
when he thought I was only a little
girl. He was four years older than I,
and I thought him very smart."

"Mother!"

"Well, when I was fifteen years
old—we'd known each other ever
since we were born—I knew I loved
him."

That was in 1835.

Halley's comet swung by us in
that year. Now it is back again, and
she still loves him. There's a wonder of love for you—a love that lasts
through the cycle of a comet!

"Yes," she goes on, "I used to sit
in church and look at the back of
James' head more than I did at the preacher's face. And I used to worry about it, too."

"She needn't have worried," you
hear him say. "I had my eye set on
her when she was only about twelve
years old."

That was back in 1832.

And in these days of one divorce
in 12 marriages, folks say love does
not last.

You ask them whether it does last.
You sort of feel that they have a
right to be heard by all the world on
that question.

"It lasts through thick and thin,"
he says.

"Why, then, do we have so many
divorces these days?"

"Because folks don't marry for
love," she answers. "I feel sorry for
folks who don't marry, though," she
adds presently.

She can't see how a bachelor "can
keep alive and take care of himself
without a woman to pick up after
him," but Mr. Maxwell thinks they
have some use in the world. "Their
duty," he says, "is to stand around
and show other men how lop-sided
a man can be without a woman."

She interrupts the conversation to
give "father" his medicine, explaining that she is worried about his heart.

"I don't want him to go before I
do," she adds. "I wish we could go
together, I think if he'd go first my
heart would just stop."

But she smiles as she says it. She
knows it probably will.

And you can't help praying that it
may all end that way—this love affair of Jas. Maxwell, Scotch farmer
boy, and Mary Elizabeth Barron, his
school mate, which has gone on for
over three quarters of a century.

Or will it end—ever. In heaven
wouldn't they seek and find each other
among all the angels.

What message do you want to send
to all the brides and bridegrooms of June," you ask them.

"Good luck to 'em," says Father.
"Tell the men to pick out girls whose
mothers brought them up right, as
my girl's mother did."

"My girl!"—ninety years old. "My
girl's mother"—dust these 70 years!

"Tell them to marry the boy they
love and don't let anything else
count!" says Mother.

"And let him be the boss?" you
ask.

"If you love him, you'll be glad
enough of that," she says.

You say goodbye, thinking you'll
never see them again.

But if they come to their seven-
tieth wedding anniversary on April 29, 1911, the chances are that you'll
hear about them—that folks will hear
about them from one end of this country to the other. Their wonderful love story will stand repeating,
year by year.

June," you ask them.

"Good luck to 'em," says Father.
"Tell the men to pick out girls whose
mothers brought them up right, as
my girl's mother did."

"My girl!"—ninety years old. "My
girl's mother"—dust these 70 years!

"Tell them to marry the boy they
love and don't let anything else
count!" says Mother.

"And let him be the boss?" you
ask.

"If you love him, you'll be glad
enough of that," she says.

You say goodbye, thinking you'll
never see them again.

But if they come to their seven-
tieth wedding anniversary on April 29, 1911, the chances are that you'll
hear about them—that folks will hear
about them from one end of this country to the other. Their wonderful love story will stand repeating,
year by year.

PRIEST WEDS YOUNG GIRL.

Pretty Katherine Johann Is Father,
Consalazio's Bride.

Trenton, N. J., May 26.—"My darling mamma, our wishes are accomplished. We are married. Kisses and regards.—Katherine."

By this brief telegram Mr. and Mrs.
Franz Johann, of this city learned that their pretty 16-year-old daughter, Katherine, had become the wife of the Rev. Father Alphons M. Consalazio, a Roman Catholic priest of the diocese of Trenton.

Further investigation disclosed that
Father Consalazio, whose attentions
to Miss Johann had been made a subject of inquiry by Bishop McFaul,
had accompanied her to Atlantic City
yesterday afternoon.

Last night, according to information received by Mr. Johann today, his daughter and Father Consalazio were married at the home of a friend of the girl living in Atlantic City.

Father Consalazio had served in the Trenton diocese for a number of years, being stationed most of the time at a church in the vicinity of Princeton.

Dear Madam

You appreciate how uncomfortable the kitchen is these warm days? It will be worse as you advance further in the summer.

Why not use electricity and be cool? You can cook, bake, opwash and iron. In fact, there is nothing which cannot be ac-

that is accomplished by either

FARM FOR POOR GOOD FOR COUNTY

1000 CITIZENS TO PETITION COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO BUY A POOR FARM.

Under Present Conditions Costs County an Enormous Sum to Take Care of Poor and Indigent.

The following petition is being circulated in various precincts throughout Pontotoc county, and as should be, is being generally signed.

"To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners for Pontotoc County of Oklahoma:

"We, the undersigned residents and taxpayers of said county do hereby petition that your Honorable Court purchase a suitable tract of land in the limits of Pontotoc county, and in a suitable place to be determined by you, for the purpose of maintaining a poor farm and erecting thereon suitable buildings for the care of the poor and indigent of Pontotoc county. Respectfully,"

The above petition will require the names of 25 per cent of the number of the votes cast in the county at the last preceding election, which will represent something over 1,000 names. Heretofore, county charges have been boarded around and the result has been an expense to the county since statehood of several thousand dollars. One of the county commissioners stated that the paupers and extreme poor had cost the county probably $3,000 during the past year. If there was a county poor farm for the poor and indigent of Pontotoc and an arrangement whereby the jail occupants of the county could with the best economy be worked on the roads, there would be a saving and benefit to the county of many thousand dollars annually.

JUSTICE BROWN'S "DISTRICT COURT"

Judge Thinks His Court Has Grown to Deserve a More Dignified Name.

Justice Brown laughingly said to a reporter today, "I am having a regular district court today," implying that matters were rushing him somewhat. One replevin suit was disposed of this morning.

And this afternoon is being taken up largely with a complicated divorce and replevin suit which illustrates very forcibly how a 25c pony can get a man into a $100 trouble. It appears that one Dock Spears and Beulah Spears man and wife had been on good terms for people of their temperament till Dock sold their horse, which by the way was claimed by the wife, and put the money in his own pocket. The wife seems to have demanded of her lord the $25 which the horse brought and being refused this, demands more, the $25 and a divorce.

HOME MISSION CONFERENCE THURSDAY JUNE 2-6

The local Home Mission society have their committees diligently at work preparing to entertain their visitors royally during their stay in Ada.

If any who have promised to entertain delegates desire to choose any particular one or from some certain town, they should phone Mrs. W. B. Barry or Mrs. Carlton Weaver, not later than Saturday, that they may so assign the homes. It is expected that the majority of the delegates will arrive Thursday, most of them on the afternoon trains. A large reception committee was appointed to meet the trains, and convey the delegates to the church where they will be assigned homes.

After the opening meeting Thursday night, a reception will be given in the church parlors. Lunch will be served by the Home Mission ladies Friday and by Miss Jernigan's Sunday school class Saturday, so it will not be necessary for the hostesses to prepare dinner for their guests those two days.

Brother Harris will preach tonight and Saturday night though, and Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock he will preach to men. Brother Stubblefield said he appreciated the co-operation of the other churches in the meeting, but would not expect them to dismiss their congregations Sunday, as the Baptist church would not accommodate the people that day anyway.

ENGLISH NOVELIST ON AMERICAN MANNERS

Thinks American Men Have a Good Deal to Learn About Politeness.

New York, May 25.—Mrs. W. Desmond Humphreys, the English novelist who writes under the nom de plume of "Rita" and who has been here on a visit of six weeks, sailed for England today on the White Star liner Majestic.

Asked how she liked the women of different cities she had visited, Mrs. Humphreys replied:

"Boston women are very refined and those in Washington, which I regard as the finest city in America, are cultured."

"Did you observe the social set in this city?" was the next question put to the authoress.

"Oh, yes; and the women are very charming. The men I did not see much of, because I suppose they are too busy making money to pay much attention to their social duties. It seemed to me that the only way you can get the American men to attend a social function is to promise them something to eat."

Questioned as to her impression of the eating habits of Americans, Mrs. Humphreys said:

"People don't eat here. They gorge themselves and that is the reason they are so fat."

"Do you think it would improve matters if Americans ate at home instead of at the restaurants?" was asked her.

"What is the use of talking about that? There is no such thing as home life in America."

Referring to the dress of New York women, Mrs. Humphreys said that they were very smart in their attire and resembled the Parisian woman in that respect.

Comparing English and American men in the matter of politeness, the novelist said:

"American men are not so polite as the Englishmen. I do not say that American men are discourteous, but they lack polish. They treat American women as their equals, and that in a measure I suppose accounts for their apparent bad manners."

STATE CANDIDATES TO ANSWER POINTED QUESTION

Guthrie, Ok., May 26.—Candidates for state offices and for the legislature will be asked to express themselves by members of the State School Land Lessees' Union on questions in which that membership is interested. According to a resolution adopted by the union's executive committee it wants to know whether the candidate is in favor of immediate sale of all the lands. If the enabling act will permit, the candidate will be asked whether he will favor passage of a law requiring state lands to be appraised at their face value as unimproved vacant land at the date of appraisal, and allow the lessee to have the preference right to take the land covered by his lease at such appraisal. A third question is whether the candidate is in favor of a law which will require improvements owned by the lessees on state lands to be appraised at such sums as they add to the salable value of the land, regardless of the cost of such improvements.

Medford, Okla., May 25.—At a mass meeting here it was decided to present a petition to the school board for an election to vote bonds to the amount of $45,000 to be used in the erection of a new fireproof brick school building. About seventy-five business men and representative citizens were present at the meeting and not one dissenting voice was raised against the proposition. The new building is to contain twelve classrooms, a laboratory and a reading room, and will be heated by hot water according to the proposed plans of the building, as presented by Architect A. A. Travers of Enid.

SUBMARINE BOAT SINKS TO BOTTOM

The French Pluviose Goes Down With Twenty Men on Board.

Calais, France, May 26.—The ferryboat-Pas de Calais, crowded with cross-channel passengers, had just left Calais this afternoon for Dover when one of her side wheels experienced a violent shock. The captain, believing that his boat had struck a submerged buoy, stopped his vessel and a moment later the hull of a submarine the Pluviose, came to the surface a short distance astern.

A boat was hurriedly launched from the ferryboat and went along side of the stricken craft, but the sailors pounded in vain against her metal sides, and in a few minutes submarine sank again.

The Pluviose with a crew of twenty-four men and three officials left Calais thirty minutes before the time it is presumed she came up under the paddle wheels of the Pas de Calais.

Some authorities believe the naphtha reservoirs of the Pluviose burst. Divers have gone down to the submarine.

Paris, May 26.—Official advices confirm the loss of the submarine Pluviose in the English Channel. Admiral B. de la Peyrere, the Minister of Marine, left for Calais upon receiving word of the accident.

Torpedo boat destroyers have been dispatched to the scene from Dunkirk.

POTTSVILLE'S LOSS IS HEAVY.

Estimated Damage From Cloudburst Will Reach Quarter Million.

Pottsville, Pa., May 25.—Pottsville is today taking stock and finds that the loss by the storm of last night will total close to a quarter of a million dollars. It was the worst storm in the town's history, not equaled even by the flood of 1850, which swept away the big Tumbling Run reservoirs and wiped several villages out of existence.

The mill of the Eastern Mill Company was swept by the cloudburst and by the flood of two bursting reservoirs and is idle, with a loss of $50,000. Factories in various sections are closed down, mines are flooded, while many stores are closed by reason of their stocks being ruined.

KANSAS TEACHERS POORLY PAID

State Superintendent Fairchild Compiles Interesting Statistics.

Topeka, May 25.—The average annual salary of school teachers in Kansas, including both city and county teachers, principals and superintendents, aggregates only $399. The teachers now are asking for an increase all over the state. They point out that they make no more than the average common laborer.

State Superintendent Fairchild today compiled these interesting statistics:

The increase in school population during the past ten years is a little less than 2,000, while the increase in enrollment for the same time is 9,000 and the average daily attendance has increased 28,000. Ten years ago the enrollment in high schools was 10,000. It now is over 25,000. The total expenditures in 1900 for our public schools amounted to $4,600,000. In the school year ending 1909 the expenditures for building purposes ten years ago were $368,000; ten years later $976,000. The number of teachers have increased from 17,513 to 13,100. While teachers' wages have increased from $3,173,000 to $5,228,000, yet the average annual salary paid to teachers, including all classes, was ten years ago $276. It is now $399.

The most significant fact developed by these statistics is that while the school population has remained practically at a standstill there is a steady increase in the enrollment and an astonishingly large increase in the average daily attendance. The increased enrollment in the high school is fully 150 per cent, and is a striking evidence of the growing popularity of the high school, while the increased expenditures, which, it must be remembered, are raised by the voluntary taxation of the people, is a further and final proof of the confidence of the public in the common schools.

TO PENSION THE GOV.

ERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Washington, May 26.—President Taft and his cabinet have approved a plan for the retirement of superannuated government employees in the classified service and within a few days a petition asking congress for legislation will be circulated among the employees in this city. This petition, approved by the administration, will be sent to congress and it is hoped will influence the legislators to put through some sort of retirement plan.

The presentation to congress of a petition signed by government employees is unusual. Government clerks are prohibited from asking favors for themselves, but after the president had heard the arguments of some of his advisers in regard to retirement plans he waived the rule. The petition therefore, will begin its journey about the departments at once.

GOATS THAT HAVE ANSWERED

THE CALL OF THE WILD

Spokane, Wash., May 27.—Hunters returning to Spokane from the mountains at head of Slate Creek in the Coeur d'Alene mining district in northern Idaho, report encountering three flocks of Angora goats that have answered the call of the wild. The animals are wily and generally get away before the hunters can get guns to shoulders. The goats broke away from a land clearing camp several years ago, when there were 25 animals in the flock. They were used to clear the land and after they had cleared a large tract of land of underbrush and other debris the leader and others found a hole in the fence and escaped to the mountains. The flock split into groups of twos and threes one of which was captured some time ago. The others increased in numbers. They have been seen by prospectors on numerous occasions the last seven months.

Newbro's Herpicide Delights the Ladies

Because they know from experience that the intelligent use of Herpicide means much to their personal appearance. It saves and beautifies the hair and in the vast majority of cases adds greatly to its abundance.

The presence of the dandruff germ in the scalp destroys the gloss and beauty of the hair, even before the resulting disease becomes firmly established.

Each day that the use of Newbro's Herpicide is put off, makes the repair that much more difficult.

Save your hair while you have hair to save.

The intelligent use of Herpicide proves its actual worth.

"I am delighted with Herpicide. I have never used a remedy that gives such marvelous results. The effect on my son's head is magical and he had a very persistent case of dandruff."

(Signed.) MRS. J. L. MOORE,

Paulding, Ohio.

"I must tell you that your remedy for the hair is working like a charm and I am very much pleased with it. The itching has stopped and new hair is growing. I shall recommend it to all my friends."

(Signed.) MRS. I. KINNEY,

New Haven, Conn.

"I can say from experience that Newbro's Herpicide is the most wonderful hair grower and dandruff eradicator that was ever made. I have used it for some time and can truthfully say that I am greatly pleased with it. I cheerfully recommend it as a splendid preparation."

(Signed.) MRS. DR. BEST,

Cottage Grove, Oregon.

"It gives me great pleasure to add my commendation of Newbro's Herpicide. A member of our family has used your remedy with very satisfactory results."

(Signed.) MISS A. E. CARUTHERS,

Tampa, Florida.

"Newbro's Herpicide is certainly the best remedy for dandruff and itching scalp I ever used. I have told several persons about your preparation and will tell every one I have an opportunity to. I can not praise Herpicide enough for what it has done for me."

CUMMINS DEFEATED

ALDRICH WINS IN FIGHT AGAINST PROPOSED AMENDMENT BY 14 MAJORITY.

Texas Senators and Four Other Democrats Vote With Republicans to Defeat Amendment.

Washington, May 26.—The carefully worked out plan of Senator Aldrich to defeat the Cummins amendment, as told in these dispatches last night, was executed to the last detail today.

Lost by Fourteen Votes.

The Cummins amendment was defeated by a vote of 43 to 29, after which the amendment of Senator Jones of Washington and the amendment of Senator Payner of Kentucky were offered and combined with the consent of Senator Aldrich, and then adopted. The net result of the day was that instead of the Interstate Commission, as intended by the Cummins amendment, being empowered to hold up until it can investigate every rate which is an increase over an existing rate, it would be empowered to hold it up for ten months, within which time it must render an adverse decision or the increased rate becomes effective.

Better Than Insurgents Believe.

It is a much greater victory in the direction of rate regulation than the insurgent Senators have allowed themselves to believe. As further modified by the Payner amendment, it is a still further improvement over the existing law, inasmuch as it permits the shipper who has a very small claim to collect his claim direct from the railway company on the face of his bill of lading, if the increased rate is declared unjustifiable, instead of sending it to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This is expected to result in more people collecting their refunds than under the existing law.

The law, as so far shaped up by the senate under the stress of hard fighting, and by the way of compromise to meet the demands of the insurgents and a majority of the democrats, now provides for rate regulation as follows:

The Time Limit.

A new rate, or an increase of an old rate, can be held up for 120 days by the commission of its own initiative or on complaint of the shipper. If the rate is not found to be unreasonable within that period a new rate will go into effect, but in the matter of an increase over an existing rate the commission may hold the increased rate up for an additional six months. If within that period the increased rate is not declared to be unjust the increase goes into effect.

This does not meet the insurgent demand that no increase be permitted to go into effect without first obtaining the sanction of the commission, but it is a great advance over the existing law. The railroads still hold the advantage of being able to file a new rate at a little less figure as fast as one rate has been declared unjust, while the commission will probably not hold up more rates than it can dispose of in the time at its command, thus letting the bulk of the increased rates take effect automatically at the expiration of 120 days.

In the struggle today twenty-one democratic senators voted on the Cummins amendment. Seventeen of these voted with the progressive republicans for the amendment and four, senators Bailey of Texas, McEnery of Louisiana, Smith of Maryland and Taylor of Tennessee voted with the reactionary republicans against the Cummins amendment. Six democrats who were unpaired failed to vote. These were Senators Bankhead, Daniel, Hughes, Money, Newlands and Percy. Senator Money, leader of the senate democrats, together with Senators Hughes of Colorado and Percy of Mississippi, left the chamber while the clerk was preparing to call the roll and failed to vote. As they were not paired their course was equivalent to giving the Aldrich group that many votes against Cummins. The republicans had but two unpaired members, Senators Penrose and Dillingham, one of whom is ill and the other missed a train.

Taxpayer Not an Eligible Juror.

Oklahoma City, May 27.—Because Oklahoma City was a party defendant in the action, District Judge Roy Hoffman Thursday held that a taxpayer of the city was not competent to serve as a juror in the case of Dora Williams against the Santa Fe railroad company and the city. When the case was first called before district judge Clark some months ago, Judge Clark stated that it such a contention were upheld it would disqualify him to sit as judge, and the case went over. Under the ruling of Judge Hoffman Thursday, about 30 jurors were excused, and a special venire of 15 was ordered for Friday morning.

The plaintiff asks $30,000 damages for injuries she alleges to have sustained by stepping into a hole on East Fourth street on the Santa Fe right of way, in June, 1908.

Miss Alpha Sledge Returns.

Miss Alpha Sledge who has been attending school at Belmont in Nashville came home this morning. She was accompanied by two of her schoolmates, Misses Hazel Benson of Madisonville, Ky., and Miss Della Vogelsang, of Wellston, Ohio. Mrs. Sledge has issued invitations to many friends to a reception Saturday afternoon, and Saturday evening a party will be given Miss Alpha and her guests.

YOUNG MAN'S FIGHT

BE READY TO MEET EVERY EMERGENCY—YOU DON'T KNOW WHEN YOU'LL BE SHOT DOWN.

Rev. Harris' scripture reading from 1st Samuel prepared his hearers to more fully appreciate his sermon, as their memory was quickened by the story of David and how, when he offered to fight the Philistine, assured of victory because he was still trusting in his God who had delivered him from the paw of the lion and the bear, Saul sent him out, and, armed by faith, slew the giant. Brother Harris chose, as a text for his remarks, the question propounded by Saul when David returned, and was brought before the King with the head of the Philistine in his hand, and Saul said to him, "Whose son art thou, young man?"

The sermon was particularly addressed to young men, his subject being, "The Young Man's Fight." He stated that every man's life was a battle, the fight was on continually and it behooves him to be on the alert as he doesn't know what the future has in store for him, and if he should be shot down, he would not want to be shot in the back, but meet defeat like a brave soldier.

Great troubles and disgraces have their origin in apparently small digressions from the truth and the right; for instance, a boy little realizes the first story he tells his mother is the beginning of a great evil which may wreck his life. So, every young man and woman ought to say every day, "God knows alone but what this may be the day of the crisis of my life. As Thou hast prepared this day for me, prepare me for its emergency and help me." You cannot tell what day will be the crisis day with you. It is a wrong idea to get into your mind that people will think less of you because you are religious. No young man should be too cowardly to pray. Let your shield be faith, your sword be strength from the word of God, and your spear be freedom from self, then enter the fight. Carry the secret in your own breast, that, "I will succeed." The external evils may appall you and you may want to quit, but stand like a man and the victory is yours as certain as God sits upon the throne.

Do not undertake to make this fight with the world's weapons, if you do you will fail, because an honest man cannot use the world's weapons and if you undertake it, defeat awaits you, for you are as weak as the weakest of your adversaries and more so. The cross of the Son of God must be to you what it was to David if you gain the victory. If you cling to it, you will win every time.

Whose son art thou, young man? Answer without a quiver, without a drop of cowardice in your blood, "I am the son of honor and integrity." He spoke here of the many evils which grew out of the love of money and what it had often cost the merchant, clerk, lawyer and preacher. Said he "Be ye not among the money lovers. I don't mean that you shall not labor, nor use economy, nor save your means, but don't let this love of money, which is the greatest of all evils, fasten its fangs on you that you will be ashamed you are the son of honor and integrity."

When the services were about half concluded the lightning and heavy storm clouds so distracted the attention of a large part of the congregation that Dr. Harris dismissed the audience with a brief benediction.

OUR "ONE IDEA"

If that contingent of prohibitionists who know not the taste of strong drink and who insist that the man who does is not a prohibitionist, but, even more, a hypocrite if he advocates prohibition, could possibly grasp beyond the "one idea" and come to view as their friends those moderate drinkers or those poor unfortunate, even, though, the love for whiskey drive them to excesses, but who never fail to cast their votes and direct all their influences in favor of the strictest prohibition legislation, there would, in the humble estimation of the News, result less danger of the legalized saloon and more practical prohibition enforcement.

ARNOLD'S ALLEGED APPEAL

NEWS COMES THAT WOULD BE LEGISLATOR FROM ALLEN IS WAGING CAMPAIGN OF PREJUDICE.

If the report is true that Mr. Jake Arnold of Allen, candidate for the legislature from Pontotoc county, is waging a campaign of vituperation against the city of Ada for the alleged reason that it seeks for its local Democrats the honors of all the officers, it may be reasonably expected that the residents of the other cities of the county including his home city of Allen, will rebuke him at the polls for such a campaign of prejudice. Any appeal to the prejudices of the people by any candidate to secure office is an insult to any citizenship whose suffrage is sought.

AND STILL SHE GROWS.

A short time ago the News published an account of the largest realty deal perhaps that was ever transacted in Ada and that was relative to the Dan Hayes property south of Main street and east of the Katy. Already that tract has been surveyed, the lots staked off and the streets are being graded. Ere long that will be one of the most picturesque residence sections in the city. The value it will add to the town in civic beauty alone cannot be estimated in dollars and cents; for a thing of beauty is a joy for ever more. It is really hard to tell in which way Ada is expanding the most as far as building of homes is concerned. Approach her from the south and you will think, "Surely this is the best part of town"; then come in on the North the same thing will occur to you; likewise on the east and west. Only one thing you do know to a certainty and that is there is always something doing in Ada.

WOULD BE TRUE TO CONSTITUENCY.

Hon. John P. Crawford is peculiarly fitted to represent Pontotoc county in a manner that will secure substantial results for Pontotoc county and reflect creditably on the democracy of the state. He is sober, energetic and has undoubted ability. On each and every moral issue ever before the people of this county or state for settlement, he is known to have always boldly and loyally supported the moral side.

If he is elected a member of the legislature, it is believed that he will always be found standing on the moral side of every question.

Since the Honorable Mr. A. G. W. Sango, the black and tan son of Africa from Muskogee, dominated and controlled the republican congressional committee meeting at Tulsa Monday, both democratic and republican newspapers have taken the matter up and "there's music in the air." Some democrats profess to be astonished, but can give no valid reason why they should be in that state of mind, and the republicans while not astonished or even surprised, are chagrined to know that Sango was so potentially in evidence and to see that the other committeemen fed from his hand.

Taking either horn of the dilemma the fact remains that Sango is boss and the lily whites dare not deny it. If they deny it they will forever alienate their one sure asset upon election day; if they admit it they drive away from the party all the respectable whites. Taking either horn they fall into the pit.

And now to accentuate and make the issue more plain and more acute a Lieutenant of Sango's, one Atch Jones, also a negro and second in command among the Muskogee republicans has announced himself as a republican candidate for the legislature from his county and swears by the great gray possum that he will have the nomination or know the reason why. Thus arises another and more acute local condition for our sister county.

And the Hon. Atch Jones has the success of the Hon. A. G. W. Sango before his eyes to encourage him. He sees that Sango controls the district republicans and he knows of no valid reason why he should not control the republicans of Muskogee county.

And neither do we.—Tulsa Democrat.

THIS IS THE STORY OF THE LONGEST LOVE AFFAIR THAT AMERICA HAS EVER KNOWN

Participants—Jas. A. Maxwell and Mary B. Barron.
Beginning—School house in Genesee Valley, N. Y., when he was 16 and she was 12.
Time—1832.
Married—April 29, 1841, when he was 25 and she 21.
Children—Five.
Present ages—He is 94 and she is 90.
Life Occupation—Farming.

By W. G. Shepherd.

Caledonia, N. Y., May 24.—James and Mary Maxwell have passed the place where their marriage seems matter-of-fact. Indeed, now that they are in the seventieth year of their wedded life their love of 70 years seems to them as wonderful as it did at first. To us of 1910 it is marvelous. One woman—one man for 60 years! They sit together in the parlor, side by side, and tell about it. Perhaps the old theory is true, that a man and his wife grow to look alike, but it is not the case with this couple, who have been wedded more years than any other couple on record in the United States. Her eyes are bright and blue; her hair is white. His eyes are dark and a little heavy, and his hair is still well sprinkled with black. His tricks and facial expression and speech are not hers. She never did try to be like a man. No suffrage business for her. You make her frown by mentioning it.

He is ninety-four years old; she is ninety. They were married April 29, 1841.

"You remember when you proposed?" you ask the man. He doesn't seem old; he drives to town, alone, every day.

"No!" he says mischievously. "Father!" comes chidingly from her as she looks at the company with smile-covered face. "He does remember," she explains. "It was in 1839—one evening at the fence."

King Edward was a baby then. Theodore Roosevelt had not been born. How many millions have lived and loved and wedded and borne children and seen them become men and women and then passed out into eternity, their life-work done, since that soft June evening in the Genesee valley? Seventy Junes have followed, and yet you hear these two tell with their own lips of that star-blessed evening, and see them sitting before you, side by side, smiling with happiness because, so long ago, she said "yes."

"I whispered it," she explains, almost blushing. "What a potent whisper, to cover 70 years."

"I was nineteen when he proposed to me," she says. "But I loved him when he thought I was only a little girl. He was four years older than I, and I thought him very smart."

"Mother!"

"Well, when I was fifteen years old—we'd known each other ever since we were born—I knew I loved him."

That was in 1835.

Halley's comet swung by us in that year. Now it is back again, and she still loves him. There's a wonder of love for you—a love that lasts through the cycle of a comet!

"Yes," she goes on, "I used to sit in church and look at the back of James' head more than I did at the preacher's face. And I used to worry about it, too."

"She needn't have worried," you hear him say. "I had my eye set on her when she was only about twelve years old."

That was back in 1832.

And in these days of one divorce in 12 marriages, folks say love does not last.

You ask them whether it does last. You sort of feel that they have a right to be heard by all the world on that question.

"It lasts through thick and thin," he says.

"Why, then, do we have so many divorces these days?"

"Because folks don't marry for love," she answers. "I feel sorry for folks who don't marry, though," she adds presently.

She can't see how a bachelor "can keep alive and take care of himself without a woman to pick up after him," but Mr. Maxwell thinks they have some use in the world. "Their duty," he says, "is to stand around and show other men how lop-sided a man can be without a woman."

She interrupts the conversation to give "father" his medicine, explaining that she is worried about his heart.

"I don't want him to go before I do," she adds. "I wish we could go together. I think if he'd go first my heart would just stop."

But she smiles as she says it. She knows it probably will.

And you can't help praying that it may all end that way—this love affair of Jas. Maxwell, Scotch farmer boy, and Mary Elizabeth Barron, his school mate, which has gone on for over three quarters of a century.

Or will it end—ever. In heaven wouldn't they seek and find each other among all the angels.

What message do you want to send to all the brides and bridegrooms of June," you ask them.

"Good luck to 'em," says Father. "Tell the men to pick out girls whose mothers brought them up right, as my girl's mother did."

"My girl!"—ninety years old. "My girl's mother"—dust these 70 years!

"Tell them to marry the boy they love and don't let anything else count!" says Mother.

"And let him be the boss?" you ask.

"If you love him, you'll be glad enough of that," she says.

You say goodbye, thinking you'll never see them again.

But if they come to their seventieth wedding anniversary on April 29, 1911, the chances are that you'll hear about them—that folks will hear about them from one end of this country to the other. Their wonderful love story will stand repeating, year by year.

He is ninety-four years old; she is ninety. They were married April 29, 1841.

"You remember when you proposed?" you ask the man. He doesn't seem old; he drives to town, alone, every day.

"No!" he says mischievously. "Father!" comes chidingly from her as she looks at the company with smile-covered face. "He does remember," she explains. "It was in 1839—one evening at the fence."

King Edward was a baby then. Theodore Roosevelt had not been born. How many millions have lived and loved and wedded and borne children and seen them become men and women and then passed out into eternity, their life-work done, since that soft June evening in the Genesee valley? Seventy Junes have followed, and yet you hear these two tell with their own lips of that star-blessed evening, and see them sitting before you, side by side, smiling with happiness because, so long ago, she said "yes."

"I whispered it," she explains, almost blushing. "What a potent whisper, to cover 70 years."

"I was nineteen when he proposed to me," she says. "But I loved him when he thought I was only a little girl. He was four years older than I, and I thought him very smart."

"Mother!"

"Well, when I was fifteen years old—we'd known each other ever since we were born—I knew I loved him."

That was in 1835.

Halley's comet swung by us in that year. Now it is back again, and she still loves him. There's a wonder of love for you—a love that lasts through the cycle of a comet!

"Yes," she goes on, "I used to sit in church and look at the back of James' head more than I did at the preacher's face. And I used to worry about it, too."

"She needn't have worried," you hear him say. "I had my eye set on her when she was only about twelve years old."

That was back in 1832.

And in these days of one divorce in 12 marriages, folks say love does not last.

You ask them whether it does last. You sort of feel that they have a right to be heard by all the world on that question.

"It lasts through thick and thin," he says.

"Why, then, do we have so many divorces these days?"

"Because folks don't marry for love," she answers. "I feel sorry for folks who don't marry, though," she adds presently.

She can't see how a bachelor "can keep alive and take care of himself without a woman to pick up after him," but Mr. Maxwell thinks they have some use in the world. "Their duty," he says, "is to stand around and show other men how lop-sided a man can be without a woman."

She interrupts the conversation to give "father" his medicine, explaining that she is worried about his heart.

"I don't want him to go before I do," she adds. "I wish we could go together. I think if he'd go first my heart would just stop."

But she smiles as she says it. She knows it probably will.

And you can't help praying that it may all end that way—this love affair of Jas. Maxwell, Scotch farmer boy, and Mary Elizabeth Barron, his school mate, which has gone on for over three quarters of a century.

Or will it end—ever. In heaven wouldn't they seek and find each other among all the angels.

What message do you want to send to all the brides and bridegrooms of June," you ask them.

"Good luck to 'em," says Father. "Tell the men to pick out girls whose mothers brought them up right, as my girl's mother did."

"My girl!"—ninety years old. "My girl's mother"—dust these 70 years!

"Tell them to marry the boy they love and don't let anything else count!" says Mother.

"And let him be the boss?" you ask.

"If you love him, you'll be glad enough of that," she says.

You say goodbye, thinking you'll never see them again.

But if they come to their seventieth wedding anniversary on April 29, 1911, the chances are that you'll hear about them—that folks will hear about them from one end of this country to the other. Their wonderful love story will stand repeating, year by year.

You appreciate how uncomfortable the kitchen is these warm days? It will be worse as you advance further in the summer. Why not use electricity and be cool? You can cook, bake, operate your sewing machine, wash and iron. In fact, there is nothing which cannot be accomplished with electricity that is accomplished by either gas or an ordinary range. It is odorless, no heat, no smoke, simply press the button and we do the rest.

ANOTHER ALERT BUSINESS MAN COMES TO ADA

J. O. Elliston formerly a leading grocerman of Okmulgee came down to Ada some two weeks ago looking around our prosperous city and was so well and favorably impressed with the possibilities of the town that he prolonged his visit one week, and by that time he simply could not make up his mind to leave this place. Now he is a full fledged citizen and has formed a partnership with Mr. Patterson, the Broadway grocerman, and the firm is making some material expansion. Mr. Elliston is a live, up-to-date business man, who says he knows the value of printer's ink and is therefore a firm believer in newspaper advertising. FARM FOR POOR GOOD FOR COUNTY

1000 CITIZENS TO PETITION COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO BUY A POOR FARM.

Under Present Conditions Costs County an Enormous Sum to Take Care of Poor and Indigent.

The following petition is being circulated in various precincts throughout Pontotoc county, and as should be, is being generally signed.

"To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners for Pontotoc County of Oklahoma:

"We, the undersigned residents and taxpayers of said county do hereby petition that your Honorable Court purchase a suitable tract of land in the limits of Pontotoc county, and in a suitable place to be determined by you, for the purpose of maintaining a poor farm and erecting thereon suitable buildings for the care of the poor and indigent of Pontotoc county. Respectfully,"

The above petition will require the names of 25 per cent of the number of the votes cast in the county at the last preceding election, which will represent something over 1,000 names. Heretofore, county charges have been boarded around and the result has been an expense to the county since statehood of several thousand dollars. One of the county commissioners stated that the paupers and extreme poor had cost the county probably $3,000 during the past year. If there was a county poor farm for the poor and indigent of Pontotoc and an arrangement whereby the jail occupants of the county could with the best economy be worked on the roads, there would be a saving and benefit to the county of many thousand dollars annually.

JUSTICE BROWN'S "DISTRICT COURT"

Judge Thinks His Court Has Grown to Deserve a More Dignified Name.

Justice Brown laughingly said to a reporter today, "I am having a regular district court today," implying that matters were rushing him somewhat. One relieving suit was disposed of this morning. And this afternoon is being taken up largely with a complicated divorce and relieving suit which illustrates very forcibly how a 25c pony can get a man into a $100 trouble. It appears that one Dock Spears and Beulah Spears man and wife had been on good terms for people of their temperament, till Dock sold their horse, which by the way was claimed by the wife, and put the money in his own pocket. The wife seems to have demanded of her lord the $25 which the horse brought and being refused this, demands more, the $25 and a divorce.

HOME MISSION CONFERENCE THURSDAY JUNE 2-6

The local Home Mission society have their committees diligently at work preparing to entertain their visitors royally during their stay in Ada.

If any who have promised to entertain delegates desire to choose any particular one or from some certain town, they should phone Mrs. W. B. Barry or Mrs. Carlton Weaver, not later than Saturday, that they may so assign the homes. It is expected that the majority of the delegates will arrive Thursday, most of them on the afternoon trains. A large reception committee was appointed to meet the trains, and convey the delegates to the church where they will be assigned homes. After the opening meeting Thursday night, a reception will be given in the church parlors. Lunch will be served by the Home Mission ladies Friday and by Miss Jernigan's Sunday school class Saturday, so it will not be necessary for the hostesses to prepare dinner for their guests those two days.

BROTHER HARRIS PREACHES FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHTS

On account of the 5th Sunday meeting of Zion Association which is in session at North Ada Baptist church, there was no morning service today, nor will there be tomorrow, at the First Baptist church. Brother Harris will preach tonight and Saturday night though, and Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock he will preach to men. Brother Stubblefield said he appreciated the co-operation of the other churches in the meeting, but would not expect them to dismiss their congregations Sunday, as the Baptist church would not accommodate the people that day anyway.

ENGLISH NOVELIST ON AMERICAN MANNERS

Thinks American Men Have a Good Deal to Learn About Politeness.

New York, May 25.—Mrs. W. Desmond Humphreys, the English novelist who writes under the nom de plume of "Rita" and who has been here on a visit of six weeks, sailed for England today on the White Star liner Majestic.

Asked how she liked the women of different cities she had visited, Mrs. Humphreys replied:

"Boston women are very refined and those in Washington, which I regard as the finest city in America, are cultured."

"Did you observe the social set in this city?" was the next question put to the authoress.

"Oh, yes; and the women are very charming. The men I did not see much of, because I suppose they are too busy making money to pay much attention to their social duties. It seemed to me that the only way you can get the American men to attend a social function is to promise them something to eat."

Questioned as to her impression of the eating habits of Americans, Mrs. Humphreys said:

"People don't eat here. They gorge themselves and that is the reason they are so fat."

"Do you think it would improve matters if Americans ate at home instead of at the restaurants?" was asked her.

"What is the use of talking about that? There is no such thing as home life in America."

Referring to the dress of New York women, Mrs. Humphreys said that they were very smart in their attire and resembled the Parisian woman in that respect.

Comparing English and American men in the matter of politeness, the novelist said:

"American men are not so polite as the Englishmen. I do not say that American men are discourteous, but they lack polish. They treat American women as their equals, and that in a measure I suppose accounts for their apparent bad manners."

Guthrie, Ok., May 26.—Candidates for state offices and for the legislature will be asked to express themselves by members of the State School Land Lessees' Union on questions in which that membership is interested. According to a resolution adopted by the union's executive committee it wants to know whether the candidate is in favor of immediate sale of all the lands. If the enabling act will permit, the candidate will be asked whether he will favor passage of a law requiring state lands to be appraised at their face value as unimproved vacant land at the date of appraisement, and allow the lessee to have the preference right to take the land covered by his lease at such appraisement. A third question is whether the candidate is in favor of a law which will require improvements owned by the lessees on state lands to be appraised at such sums as they add to the salable value of the land, regardless of the cost of such improvements.

Bond Election at Medford Demanded.

Medford, Okla., May 25.—At a mass meeting here it was decided to present a petition to the school board for an election to vote bonds to the amount of $45,000 to be used in the erection of a new fireproof brick school building. About seventy-five business men and representative citizens were present at the meeting and not one dissenting voice was raised against the proposition. The new building is to contain twelve classrooms, a laboratory and a reading room, and will be heated by hot water according to the proposed plans of the building, as presented by Architect A. A. Travers of Enid.

SUBMARRINE BOAT SINKS TO BOTTOM

The French Pluviose Goes Down With Twenty Men on Board.

Calais, France, May 26.—The ferryboat Pas de Calais, crowded with cross-channel passengers, had just left Calais this afternoon for Dover when one of her side wheels experienced a violent shock. The captain, believing that his boat had struck a submerged buoy, stopped his vessel and a moment later the hull of a submarine the Pluviose, came to the surface a short distance astern.

A boat was hurriedly launched from the ferryboat and went along side of the stricken craft, but the sailors pounded in vain against her metal sides, and in a few minutes the submarine sank again.

The Pluviose with a crew of twenty-four men and three officials left Calais thirty minutes before the time it is presumed she came up under the paddle wheels of the Pas de Calais.

Some authorities believe the naphtha reservoirs of the Pluviose burst. Divers have gone down to the submarine.

Paris, May 26.—Official advices confirm the loss of the submarine Pluviose in the English Channel. Admiral B. de la Payre, the Minister of Marine, left for Calais upon receiving word of the accident.

Torpedo boat destroyers have been dispatched to the scene from Dunkirk.

POTTSVILLE'S LOSS IS HEAVY.

Estimated Damage From Cloudburst Will Reach Quarter Million.

Pottsville, Pa., May 25.—Pottsville is today taking stock and finds that the loss by the storm of last night will total close to a quarter of a million dollars. It was the worst storm in the town's history, not equaled even by the flood of 1850, which swept away the big Tumbling Run reservoir and wiped several villages out of existence.

The mill of the Eastern Mill Company was swept by the cloudburst and by the flood of two bursting reservoirs and is idle, with a loss of $50,000. Factories in various sections are closed down, mines are flooded, while many stores are closed by reason of their stocks being ruined.

KANSAS TEACHERS POORLY PAID

State Superintendent Fairchild Compiles Interesting Statistics.

Topeka, May 25.—The average annual salary of school teachers in Kansas, including both city and county teachers, principals and superintendents, aggregates only $399. The teachers now are asking for an increase all over the state. They point out that they make no more than the average common laborer.

State Superintendent Fairchild today compiled these interesting statistics:

The increase in school population during the past ten years is a little less than 2,000, while the increase in enrollment for the same time is 9,000 and the average daily attendance has increased 28,000. Ten years ago the enrollment in high schools was 10,000. It now is over 25,000. The total expenditures in 1900 for our public schools amounted to $4,600,000. In the school year ending 1909 the expenditures for building purposes ten years ago were $368,000; ten years later $976,000. The number of teachers have increased from 11,513 to 13,100. While teachers' wages have increased from $3,173,000 to $5,228,000, yet the average annual salary paid to teachers, including all classes, was ten years ago $273. It is now $399.

The most significant fact developed by these statistics is that while the school population has remained practically at a standstill there is a steady increase in the enrollment and an astonishingly large increase in the average daily attendance. The increased enrollment in the high school is fully 150 per cent, and is a striking evidence of the growing popularity of the high school, while the increased expenditures, which, it must be remembered, are raised by the voluntary taxation of the people, is a further and final proof of the confidence of the public in the common schools.

TO PENSION THE GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Washington, May 26.—President Taft and his cabinet have approved a plan for the retirement of superannuated government employees in the classified service and within a few days a petition asking congress for legislation will be circulated among the employees in this city. This petition, approved by the administration, will be sent to congress and it is hoped will influence the legislators to put through some sort of retirement plan.

The presentation to congress of a petition signed by government employees is unusual. Government clerks are prohibited from asking favors for themselves, but after the president had heard the arguments of some of his advisers in regard to retirement plans he waived the rule. The petition therefore, will begin its journey about the departments at once.

GOATS THAT HAVE ANSWERED THE CALL OF THE WILD

Spokane, Wash., May 27.—Hunters returning to Spokane from the mountains at head of Slate Creek in the Coeur d'Alene mining district in northern Idaho, report encountering three flocks of Angora goats that have answered the call of the wild. The animals are witty and generally get away before the hunters can get guns to shoulders. The goats broke away from a land clearing camp several years ago, when there were 25 animals in the flock. They were used to clear the land and after they had cleared a large tract of land of underbrush and other debris the leader and others found a hole in the fence and escaped to the mountains. The flock split into groups of twos and threes one of which was captured some time ago. The others increased in numbers. They have been seen by prospectors on numerous occasions the last seven months.

CROOKS SKIDOO WHEN REV. BULGIN ENTERS

Claremore, Okla., May 25.—Dr. E. J. Bulgin, the town-cleaning evangelist, has struck Claremore and intends to give it a clean-up. For a long time this town has been run "open." The bootleggers and gamblers who did not know of his coming for a time after all arrangements had been made, are on the run. It is reported that everything is tight for the time being and that gamblers are taking the train for Tulsa, thinking that at the present time a safer place for operations.
